Dear Movement Disorders Colleague,

It is our privilege to invite you to an outstanding event, i.e. the 6th Swiss Movement Disorders Symposium.

We will start the symposium on Thursday evening with the usual highlight, our Video-Session, where you can actively engage in or enjoy the presentations in a more typical Swiss way (quietly).

On Friday morning we will get an update on tremor, given by THE world-wide expert (a first president of the newly created European Academy of Neurology), Günther Deuschl, and our very own François Vingerhoets. After a coffee break, Michel Koenig will give you the basic science needed to understand ataxia, while Thomas Klockgether will share his unsurpassed clinical experience of ataxia with us.

On Friday afternoon, we'll have a chance to learn about the search projects currently supported by Parkinson Schweiz. One of them could result in a paper that may win a new award that we will introduce this year: The best Movement Disorders Paper Award, motivating young researchers to excel. We're looking forward to the presentation of this year's awardee!

For the following lecture on neurorehabilitation we proudly introduce two internationally acclaimed researchers, Nir Giladi, who will discuss the phenomenon of freezing of gait and Lisa Shulmann, who will sharpen our understanding of outcome measures in neurorehabilitation.

Refreshed from a coffee break, we will profit from Yulia Worbe's particular expertise in Tourette, the one disorder, that is like no other in between neuropsychiatry and movement disorders, before Alain Kaelin, the newly elected Chair of the Neurocenter of Southern Switzerland, will wrap up the symposium with this year's news.

We very much look forward to welcoming you in Bern.
